MAYORS OF COUNTY HEAR UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION FROM LEADERS OF UNIONS

85 Per Cent of Building Trades Workers Unemployed Is Statement of Carpenter Official; 25 Per Cent of Plumbers Are Idle

There are close to 5000 persons out of work in San Mateo county, it was revealed when the county unemployment committee, consisting of mayors of the peninsula cities and supervisors, convened at the court house in this city, Wednesday morning, to take immediate steps towards relieving a situation that, according to reports submitted at the meeting, is getting more acute each day.

When Mayor M. A. Harris of Atherton, chairman of the committee, called for a report from Secretary Roscoe Wyatt, the latter stated that the registration in the various cities showed that 369 had applied for work to date.

J. F. Cambiano of San Mateo, representing the carpenters, made the startling statement to the committee that out of 3000 members of the building trades in San Mateo, fully 80 per cent are out of work and have been so for months. W. J. Logue, representing the plumbers, and the steamfitters, reported that about 25 per cent of the men of these crafts were out of employment.

The two labor representatives appealed to the committee and particularly to the board of supervisors for their co-operation in bringing about the passage of an ordinance that will favor local workers on all public improvements, calling attention to the fact that such ordinances had been adopted and put to use in other counties of the state.

Particular mention was made by Cambiano of the inability of local carpenters to secure work on the construction of the new wing of the Community Hospital at Beresford. Supervisor Hickey promised to take up the matter with the architect and the contractors. Supervisor Rosalie Brown stated that she had succeeded in having two married men placed at the Community Hospital this week.

Mayor C. A. Buck of Burlingame and City Manager Earl Wilsey of San Mateo urged the supervisors to speed up their contemplated construction projects so as to help relieve the unemployment situation during the winter months. It was pointed out by Supervisor Hickey, that each supervisor has just so much money to spend in his road district and had to make it last.

Chairman Thompson of the board told of the spending of approximately $450 available for hiring seven men to cut fire trails.

Secretary Wyatt was instructed to have cards printed for the listing of available jobs in the county and have them distributed by the police in each city, so that work could be listed and the unemployed assigned to various jobs. Residents of the county are to be appealed to and asked to assist in the campaign by having work done around their homes now instead of waiting until the spring or summer. Chairman Harris said he felt that with the right stimulation of interest among the people, fully $15,000 worth of work could be secured for the unemployed during the winter.

Churches, service clubs, fraternal and other organizations in the different communities, will be asked to help in the cause. The San Mateo County Red Cross, under Miss Helen Cheesbrough, is working out a plan of notifying the unemployed when jobs are available.

The driver of the car was Melvin Agnew, 321 Elder street, Millbrae. Agnew stated that the girl had stepped in front of his machine at the intersection of Junipero Serra boulevard and El Camino Real. He was booked on a technical charge of manslaughter, but released on his own recognizance.

The girl is survived by her parents. She was a native of Colma. Funeral services were held yesterday at Colma, followed by interment in the Italian cemetery.

Menokirk Club Hears Talk On Character

An interesting talk on personality was given Wednesday evening before the Menokirk club by Lloyd Wilson, public relations secretary of the San Francisco Young Men's Christian Association. The chairman of the meeting was Donald Bogle. An interesting and enjoyable feature of the meeting Wednesday evening was the singing by A. M. Cuthbertson accompanied by Clyde Headley on the piano. His selection was, "When the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold."

The Menokirk club is an organization of men of the Methodist Episcopal church, which meets once a month in the church parlors. The next meeting of the club will be held on January 15.

San Bruno Boy Found On Ranch In Salinas

Stephen Grundy, San Bruno boy who ran away from his home last week, has been found at work on a ranch near Salinas. The boy was hitch-hiking his way to Hollywood, he told his parents when they went after him, and was intending to accept a position in the movies. He had run short of money and was working on the ranch to get enough to enable him to continue his way south.

The Salinas rancher had noticed that the boy whom he had employed corresponded with a description of the missing San Bruno boy, and had notified the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. W. Grundy of San Bruno.

House Committee Votes 16 to 8 For Sunnyvale Base

Sunnyvale has been selected by the committee of the House as the best site for the government's west coast dirigible base. A United Press report yesterday stated that the Santa Clara county site had been recommended by the committee with a vote of 16 for and 8 against. So great a majority in the committee augurs well for the chances of this site being selected by congress.

Inquest Held In Car Death Of Dr. Kallen

Make of Death Car Determined As Hupmobile; Description of Driver

New evidence concerning the supposed murder of Dr. Lincoln Kallen, San Francisco X-Ray specialist of San Francisco, was adduced at the inquest held into his death at the parlor of S. Neri in South San Francisco Tuesday afternoon. The new angle in the evidence was the fact that the car which had pushed Dr. Kallen's machine over the embankment and caused his death was a Hupmobile.

This information was given by Mrs. George Douglas, who was riding with Dr. Kallen at the time he was killed, and who was injured at the same time. Mrs. Douglas stated that as the car pulled up behind Dr. Kallen's car just as he was passing an oil truck, Dr. Kallen said, "Mr. Hupmobile wants to get by." And later when he had pulled over to the right, he said, "Now, Mr. Hupmobile can pass."

The fact that the car was a Hupmobile was confirmed by the driver of the oil truck, who stated that he drove both the machine and the driver on several occasions prior to the accident, but that since Dr. Kallen's death he had not seen them.

A good description of the driver of the death car was given by both the oil truck driver and by Mrs. Douglas. These descriptions coincided to a remarkable degree.

After hearing the testimony, the jury agreed that Dr. Kallen came to his death as a result of being forced off the road by a party unknown. The inquest was conducted by County Coroner McGovern.

Girl Scout Leaders Hold Meeting in S.F.

Redwood City and San Carlos women interested in the Girl Scout movement, attended a dinner in the Sequoia high school cafeteria Wednesday evening given in honor of Miss Alice Conway, national field worker of the national headquarters in New York.

Girl Scouting originated in England and today, there are in America, 241,000 girls belonging to the organization.

Among the local women who attended the dinner were Miss Ruth Jayne, field director for the Sequoia high school district; Mrs. A. S. Kalenborn, commissioner; Mrs. J. E. Hedge, Miss Maude Stilleston, Miss Mura Stilleston, Miss Louise Smith, Miss Janet Wood and Miss Gladys Wyckoff.

The stage crew, under the supervision of J. Edwin Spence, have planned many off-stage effects, including a snow-storm.

The leading characters for the play will be Ruth Dolphin, Mam'zelle; and Andrew Bright the Man-who-Wasn't-Expected. The remaining cast in order of their appearance is Milton Abbott, the husband; Betty Sheehan, the wife; a small grammar school student, the child; Louise Nielsen, the wife's father and Anna Isaksen, the wife's mother.

Exchange Club Plans Show For Christmas Time

Sequoia Theatre to Present
Fine Program at Show
For Children

Manager Tom Kane of the Sequoia Theatre, this week, completed arrangements for the annual Christmas party, given each year by the Redwood City Exchange Club and the Sequoia Theatre, for the children of the community. The program this year will be one of exceptional interest to the youngsters, according to Kane, who has succeeded in securing three outstanding favorites of the screen for this occasion.

The dog star, Rin-Tin-Tin, will be seen in one of his best known pictures, which will be preceded by an "Our Gang" comedy. The program will be completed by a Mickey Mouse cartoon.

The Christmas party this year will take place at the Sequoia Theatre, on Monday afternoon, December 22, at 2 o'clock. It is being planned this year by a committee of Exchangeites consisting of E. Scott, chairman; Harold McGee, James Hearne, Albert Davies and Lindsey Gray.

Each year the club with the assistance of the theatre has been giving a Christmas party to the children of the community. In order that as many children may be accommodated as possible the committee particularly requests this year that only children attend, as the seating capacity of the show is limited, and the show is intended wholly as a children's party. Those accompanying children to the show are asked to wait and call for them after the show.

Transportation will be furnished by the committee for any crippled children, and anyone knowing of some crippled children who could attend if transportation were provided is requested to notify the committee.

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Canal

Musical Numbers Provided by Members of School
Glee Club

An interesting talk on the Panama Canal was given at the regular weekly meeting of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club Wednesday. The speaker was Major Prior, who is connected with an automobile agency here, but who for many years was in the United States army, and who has made a great many trips through the canal zone extending over an extended period of time.

Major Prior told of the history of the canal, and of the difficulties encountered in its construction. He also portrayed graphically the trip through the canal, describing the cities and, particularly, the giant locks which allow ships to move from one level to another in the canal. He told of the sanitation which has been employed to make the canal zone inhabitable and free from yellow fever and malaria.

The chairman of the meeting was Gordon Seely. A box of preserved fruit, presented to the club by Joseph Gibson, manager of the Pratt-Low Preserving Company's plant, was raffled off for the benefit of the charity fund of the club.

A pleasing part of the program Wednesday was a number of musical pieces presented by children of the McKinley school. The children were from the class of Miss Ruth Mathieson and Miss Rosamond Boulton and were trained by Mrs. H. E. Higgins. Solo numbers were rendered by Robert Henderson, who gave "Hark the Herald Angel Sing," as a trumpet solo, and Malcolm Waite, who sang "Silent Night."

Two choral numbers, "O, Come All Ye Faithful," and "Joy to the World," were sung by a chorus composed of the following pupils: Laura Roldan, Anita Rodriguez, Margaret Meredith, Evelyn Lehman, Virginia Dennis, Ruth Brown, June White, Katherine Grant, Doris Ricci, Edwanda Cardona, Lucile Augusta, Lavern Rush, Ruth Snider, Tomiko Iijima, Audrey Douglas, Gladys Laugherty, Everett Upton, Wm. Harrigan, Tony Ledesma, Clarke White, Jas. McLaren, Chas. Wood, Walter Nelson, Roger Flisk, Jack Robertson, Edward Fabbri, Kenneth Diehe, Geo. Warner.

Under Sheriff To Be Police Chief

Chief of Police Mull will resign his position of the first of the year to accept a position in the sheriff's office at Oakland. Mull is to have charge of the traffic squad. The place is under civil service. Chief Mull has made many friends during his two year's stay in the community.

It is said Edward Farrell, undersheriff of the county, is to be appointed to the position by the Atherton trustees. Farrell is a very popular young officer, capable and efficient. He has specialized in crime detection, particularly fingerprint study and photography, and is also thoroughly conversant with both the criminal and the civil procedure necessary for a police department.

Judge J. Hannon Now 90 Years Old

Pioneer Resident Was For 22
Years Justice of Peace
In Township

Judge James Hannon, pioneer of this city, and for 22 years justice of the peace of the third township, celebrated his 90th birthday Wednesday, quietly at his home at 320 Stambaugh street. Judge Hannon was born in Wisconsin on December 10, 1840, but came to California in 1867. He has been a resident of this city since 1869. From 1894 to 1916 he served as justice of the peace of this township, being elected practically every time over opposition.

Judge Hannon is still an unusually bright man, and takes a great interest in current events and politics. In spite of the fact that his eyes have failed during the past ten years so that he is now unable to read the papers, he gathers enough facts from his conversation with others that he converses upon any topic of the day with an understanding and grasp that is far beyond the majority.

AUTOS WRECKED AT WHIPPLE CROSSING

Two cars, one a light truck and the other a sedan, were badly damaged in a crash which occurred at the intersection of Whipple avenue and Myrtle street Wednesday evening. The sedan was driven by A. S. Marshall, Eaton avenue, and was being driven west on Whipple. E. Sironi, Whipple avenue, was turning onto Whipple from Myrtle street when the two cars collided.

The sedan was turned on its side and badly crushed. Bert Marshall, 15 months old, suffered a cut over one eye and Mary Marshall, 4½ years, suffered a cut on the neck. The drivers were not injured. The truck received a bent axle and other damages. The accident was investigated by Officer Henry Mengel.

In the excitement following the crash, someone believing that the cars were on fire, turned in an alarm from box 65. The department responded but found no fire when they arrived.

SEQUOIA PRESS CLUB HOLDS DINNER DANCE

Sequoia high school Press Club held an informal buffet dinner dance in the Girls' Club Rooms last night. Gene Hartney president of the club was the general chairman. He was assisted by Brita Seeborn, chairman of the refreshment committee who included Mary Lou Bell, Phyllis Blackington, Edith Grimmenstein, Gilman Merrill and Philip Weed. Miss Beth Moulthrop headed the decorations committee; Ora Palmer, Gloria Grandi, Shirley Langford, Lucile Moore and Beatrice Stentford. The clean up group, of which George Schroeder was chairman, were Karl Frahm, Vernon Barnes, George Aabel, Dan Morgan and Jack Schroeder. Miss Louise Watkins is faculty advisor of the Press Club.

A gaily decorated and lighted Christmas tree and yule-tide wreaths lent the spirit of Christmas to the club rooms, which were a fitting setting to the very enjoyable party of young journalists.

REDDING (UP)—What to do—cut the house in two, or stretch the lot? This was the question puzzling the Shasta superior court when the late Thomas J. Brown of Redding bequeathed Mrs. M. Loomis the house she occupied, 50 feet long, and a lot 40 feet deep.

COUNTY CONSOLIDATION WILL BE PROVIDED FOR IN PROPOSED CHARTER

San Francisco-San Mateo County Consolidation Committee
Drafts Charter Provisions to Apply in Event of Merger of Two Counties in Future

Two important steps towards the submission of charter provisions for consolidation area government in event of the merger of San Francisco and San Mateo County were taken this week at a meeting of the San Francisco-San Mateo Consolidation Committee at the San Francisco Commercial Club.

The committee approved the proposal of its legal sub-committee that the consolidation provisions it is preparing for the freeholders' charter, at the request of the freeholders, should not contain reference to San Mateo County representation on the board of supervisors and on boards and commissions of the consolidated city and county. It also decided to ask the San Francisco board of supervisors to submit the proposed consolidation charter provisions to the voters as an amendment to the present city charter, at the same time as the freeholders' charter is voted upon, and to be effective, if approved by the voters, only in event that the freeholders' charter, containing the same provisions, fails to carry.

In arriving at a decision to leave out references to San Mateo county representatives on the board of supervisors, the committee did not recede from its recommendation that San Mateo county should have one-third representation on such a board. The purpose of the omission, according to Colonel C. N. Kirkbride of San Mateo, chairman of the legal sub-committee, was to conform with the implied opinion of the freeholders that the freeholders will not have time to properly consider the question, and it would be impossible to make a definite recommendation until the freeholders themselves decide on the size of the board of supervisors. Kirkbride explained that the question of San Mateo County representation can be properly left for submission in a definite consolidation proposal to San Mateo county, which would have to meet the approval of San Mateo County voters before it would become a part of the San Francisco charter.

The proposal to ask the San Francisco supervisors to submit a separate charter amendment to the present San Francisco charter at the same election as a freeholders' charter is in order to obtain action on the consolidation provisions by the 1931 session of the state legislature. Colonel Allen G. Wright of the legal sub-committee stated:

"It is essential that the basic plan of consolidation be incorporated in the San Francisco charter at once, in order that further steps, necessary for the submission of a consolidation proposal to San Mateo County, can be worked out. The proposed charter provisions are being prepared along such general lines that they can be incorporated in either a Freeholders' charter or the present charter. The action of the committee is designed to insure the consolidation plan being acted upon by the San Francisco voters without the possibility of a two-years delay, should the next legislature not be able to ratify any such charter consolidation provisions."

For the purpose of studying important phases of consolidation not contained in the proposed charter provisions, which will be a part of a consolidation proposal to be made to San Mateo county after a basic consolidation plan has been incorporated in the San Francisco charter, the consolidation committee decided to materially increase the size of its committee. Colbert Coldwell presided at the committee's meeting. Those in attendance included: M. S. Biot, of San Mateo; John D. Bromfield, of Burlingame; R. Guy Smith, of Moss Beach; J. H. Sullivan, of Menlo Park; Colonel Allen G. Wright, of San Francisco; Colonel C. N. Kirkbride, of San Mateo; E. B. Hinman, of Redwood City; J. W. Library Shows Increased Use of Reading Room

During the month of November, 6,000 books were borrowed from Redwood City Public Library, against 4,000 books borrowed in the same month in 1929, and 2,000 books borrowed in 1928, according to the reports of Miss Wilhelmina Harper, librarian. Over 1000 people availed themselves of the use of the reading room last month, showing a large increase in attendance. At the meeting of the trustees of the library, Tuesday evening, it was decided to buy children's books much more heavily, to meet the demands of the community, and for the time being, less adult literature.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

At the ripe old age of 88 years Mary Ann O'Connell, an early and highly esteemed resident of Redwood City, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel D. Harrington, in San Francisco Sunday. In the 70's Mrs. O'Connell and her late husband, Thomas O'Connell, owned and made their home out the property at Rogers street and the highway, now valuable and occupied by a gas station. She was a native of New Orleans and is survived by her daughter and two sons. J. V. Swift of this city is her cousin. The funeral took place Wednesday.

A Check to Crime

The rapid increase of crime in this country is an ever growing menace to society for which some remedy should be discovered. If unchecked, the ill effects of this menace will lead to an end which is not pleasant to contemplate. Even now the dockets of our courts are overburdened. Prisons and correctional institutions are taxed to the limits of their capacity. Statistics compiled in regard to the nation's homicide record by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician for the Prudential Insurance Co., show that of the 37,000,000 residents of 136 American cities the homicide death rate was 10.2 per cent per 100,000. In three cities the rate ran over 50 per 100,000. The estimated murder roll of the nation was about 12,000. This is but one phase of the criminal field. It gives an idea how deplorably high the percentage would be if all crimes were considered in compiling the statistics.

Another alarming aspect of the situation is that young men and women commit such a large portion of these crimes. Prof. George Washington Kirchwey, dean of the Columbian University School of Law and one of the foremost criminologists in the United States in telling of his experience as a warden in Sing Sing Penitentiary, stated that he found 50 per cent of the men confined there during his year of study were under 25 years of age. Almost daily there are to be seen in the newspapers accounts of robberies and murders committed by young people yet in their teens.

In an attempt to curb the crime waves drastic laws have been passed. Heavy sentences have been imposed by the courts, and yet, these methods are seemingly of little avail. The number of murders, robberies, and other crimes of less serious nature continue to increase. Disrespect for law and order seems to grow more prevalent. Is there something fundamentally wrong with the system of society in which such conditions exist?

In his statements Professor Kirchwey said that 80 per cent of these criminals studied have never been trained to earn a living consistently. Perhaps this furnishes a key to the problem. Apparently, there is something lacking in the training received by the youth of this country. If they receive the proper training in the public schools, if they are furnished with an education that will aid them in earning an honest living, if their characters are properly developed will they turn towards a career of crime in later life? If not, then the responsibility of checking crime rests upon the public school system.

It is in the public schools that the future citizens of this country spend the majority of their time during the years when they are most susceptible to outside influence and environment. It is there that they should be taught those principles, imbued with those ideals of citizenship which will guide their acts later in public life, and enable them to contribute to public welfare rather than form a menace to its existence.

The responsibility upon the public schools cannot be properly discharged unless these schools receive the whole-hearted support of every citizen. If they are to perform their mission they must be given the important position in national affairs to which they are properly due.

What Measure Next?

Man's measures are, in a way, an index to his achievements. It is not so many years ago that the mile or league furnished a measure sufficient to the needs of the time. But astronomy created a need for calculating distances in space, and the diameter of the earth's orbit, about 186,000,000 miles, formed such a unit. But even this is not sufficient for the needs of the man whose tape line must span the comet's tail, and the unit of a light year or more than 26 times our last unit has been adopted.

But now when science has pushed past the confines of our universe itself and measures the distance between other universes so distant that it requires millions of years for light to reach the earth, even the light year seems inadequate to express such measures. What will the next measure be? Science and time alone hold the answer.

It is often a good thing for a community or individual to have its mind cleared by a little adversity. Such has proved to be the case in Redwood City. A little "hard times" is giving us things that we didn't seem to be able to get during more prosperous times when everyone was thinking of individual gain and forgetting about community advancement.

Further Restriction of Aliens Urged

Restriction of immigration from countries having no diplomatic relations with the United States, including Soviet Russia, was proposed in a bill introduced in the House at the opening of Congress by Representative Bachmann, of Wheeling, W. Va., for enactment at this session of Congress.

In a radio address on November 29, Representative Fish, of Garrison, N. Y., chairman of the House Special Committee investigating communistic activities in the United States, indicated that the committee in its recommendations to the House would recommend the Bachmann bill. In speaking of the work of this committee, Representative Fish said in part:

"The investigation has convinced me that the surest and most effective way of combating communism in this country is to give the fullest possible publicity to the fundamental principles and aims of the communists, which are the same throughout the world, as they are not likely to prove acceptable to any considerable number of American citizens, unless camouflaged by other extraneous issues, such as unemployment insurance....

"I am not an alarmist, and do not consider the revolutionary doctrines of the communists in the United States to constitute a menace at the present time to our Republican form of government, but they are a real threat to certain industries, such as textiles, coal mining, garment workers, marine transportation, fur workers, and are beginning to cause considerable trouble through the creation of nuclei and the issuance of shop papers in the automobile industry, lumber industry, and in numerous manufacturing centers throughout the Nation....

"The growth, propaganda and activities of the communists in the United States have been steadily increasing since 1925, when the Department of Justice was deprived of the activities of the communists. Since then the communists have taken the leadership in three big textile strikes, at Passaic, New Bedford and Gastonia, involving about 40,000 workers, not for the wages for the employees, but to incite a revolutionary spirit through a continuation of the strike."

Scraping the Legal Barnacles

There is a definite need in state and nation alike for simplification in laws, particularly in criminal procedure. At present there is so much legal chaos connected with criminal cases that justice is either delayed or defeated.

So rapid has been our national, state and civic growth that laws which were valuable and effective a generation ago are now impractical. Yet little effort is made to change them or to have them removed from the statutes. Occasionally we hear of some such obsolete law being invoked in order to further the plans of some particular faction, in spite of the fact that it may have been forgotten for years.

The legal system of the British Empire is more accurate and immediate, with the result that a high percentage of criminals are caught and convicted, and crime is discouraged. A simple, but complete criminal code that is unhampered by legal loopholes will do more to discourage crime than a thousand ordinances which merely restrict the law-abiding citizen, to the safety and advantage of the crook.

If every city ordinance, county ordinance state law were passed for a period of years only, and at the expiration of that term became automatically void unless passed again, the laws would be more applicable to the period for which they are intended to serve. This, we believe, would do away with a lot of dead timber, simplify procedure, create a more wholesome respect for the law, and decrease crime.

Don't Destroy Bread and Butter

The spectacular in life generally wins the applause. The commonplace, which corresponds to our bread and butter, is too often overlooked. But without the plodding support of business and industry, spectacular ideas could never bring practical results.

Nowhere is plodding and continuous support of the social structure more strikingly illustrated than in the case of insurance. It stands as the basis of all credit and without its steady hand, a growing industry or an ambitious individual would be left helpless to proceed with a feeling of safety and security.

And yet the insurance business is attacked in a hundred different ways with proposals to tax and restrict it, which, if carried out, would not only ruin insurance but, far worse, would destroy the feeling of security and confidence which insurance passes to the individual and industry.

We should think of these things when wild schemes are proposed which tend to undermine insurance and thus weaken the foundation of our whole credit structure.

In the long run it is the plodders and not the grandstand artists who make the world a pleasant and safe place in which to live.

Approximately 85% of the ladies are regular readers of newspaper advertising.

Love's Sacrifice By Mildred Barbour

She had learned not to speak to him when he was in this mood....

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films have no future for her.

Lois is absorbed in her own work. During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

It also involves Lois in difficulties with Bert.

Lois is strongly attracted to Walton, who is much older than herself, and very rich and distinguished. She finds him very cold and domineering.

He demands she give up her friendship with Sally.

Sally, meanwhile, is in hot water at the hospital, because she is too fond of a good time.

After an especially gay party she is assigned in an emergency to night duty.

She falls asleep while waiting for the special nurse to come, and the patient, in her delirium, rushes from the room and jumps from a window. By a miracle she escapes with minor injuries, but Sally's fate is sealed.

Unfit.

She is dismissed in disgrace just before graduation.

Chapter 30.

Dr. Dale Randolph, out of sympathy, offers her a position in his office. He does not guess that Sally, while at the hospital, occasionally used drugs to bolster up her energies after gay parties.

Lois provides Sally with a little home in the country.

Sally falls in love with Dr. Randolph, who has no idea of her feeling for him.

Randolph meets Lois and likes her at once.

This is too much for Sally. She again resorts to the use of drugs, and, while in a befuddled condition, tells Randolph she loves him.

Randolph lays the situation before Lois and asks her help.

Chapter 31.

Analysis

If it had not been for Sally's questions, Lois might not have faced her problem as soon as she did. But now that the matter had taken concrete form, she realized that she did have a problem. And, being honest, she tried to meet it.

She told herself that there was no denying that Dr. Randolph was the most attractive man she had ever met and that she wished she were free to seek his friendship. She refused to believe that she was in love with him, although she had to admit that she knew he was strongly attracted to her.

"But I mustn't see him again," she told herself. "If Sally sees the whole thing so plainly, others might, too. I owe it to James to avoid anything that might cause talk."

Having made this decision, she tried to dismiss the matter from her mind, but it bobbed up, every now and then. A few nights later, when Lois and Walton were on their way to a function, she noticed that he was even more tactful than usual. He sat staring straight ahead as the car sped along. She had learned not to speak to him when he was in these moods, but she wondered what had provoked this particular one. She was to learn later on.

"The dinner that they attended was unusually long and tiresome. She tried to appear to be enjoying herself, for she noticed that Walton seemed to be watching her. All the other guests were much older than she was, and she could not feel that what she had to say interested them very much. Conversation at her end of the table had ceased long before dinner was over.

During the drive home, Walton asked her whether she had had a pleasant evening. It was the first time he had ever asked her such a question.

"No, not very," she said honestly. "I don't enjoy formal dinners. Do you?"

"No," he said. "But they serve their purpose. I often meet people who are very useful, in one way or another."

She surprised herself by saying: "I am beginning to detest the word 'useful.' Does everything that one does have to be 'useful'?"

"In a measure—in a very large measure," he returned. "But I realize that you do not agree with me. I have some very clear evidence on that point."

"What do you mean?" she asked. Something in his tone sounded ominous.

"I'll tell you when we reach home," was the only answer he made.

When a maid had taken their wraps, Walton led his wife into the library.

"This is rather a painful matter," he began. "I can hardly bring myself to attach a great deal of importance to it, but nevertheless I cannot ignore it."

He took an envelope from his pocket and drew from it a piece of paper. This he handed to Lois. "Anonymous letters are often untruthful," he went on. "But what do you think of this one?"

"Her face crimsoned as she read the few lines that linked her name with Dale Randolph's. Then she looked her husband full in the face.

"It's a lie," she said simply. "That's all I can say. Of course, I know Dr. Randolph. Sally Todd is his office assistant. I have seen him perhaps five or six times altogether. Once I had tea with him, when Sally asked my aid in adjusting a difference between herself and him. That is absolutely all."

Walton nodded. "I understand," he said. "That Dr. Randolph is a decent young man who is kept rather too busy with his practice to have any time for philandering. However, someone—probably one of his silly women patients who believes she has a monopoly on his attention—has taken the trouble to write me this note. In view of the investigation that I have already made, I attach no special significance to it. I do not think that I need tell you that, had my inquiry resulted in anything else, you would not be in my house now. I have told you that I married her because I want heirs for my fortune, sons to carry on my name, to inherit the social position we are creating. No romantic nonsense about that. If I were to find you untrustworthy, I should treat you as I would a dishonest employee."

He crumpled up the note and threw it into the fire. Then, without another look at Lois, he walked out of the room. She remained seated. She suddenly felt too weak to stand.

Who could have written that note? Lois could find only one answer to the question. Sally!

She put her head down on the arm of the chair and began to cry. She was both indignant and frightened. Did Dr. Randolph know anything of this? If he did, she would die of humiliation.

Her first impulse was to go to Sally and charge her with writing the note. No, that wouldn't do. Sally would deny having written it, of course. Evidently the only thing to do was to do nothing, since James had not taken the matter too seriously.

She hadn't seen Sally for several days—not since that memorable luncheon. Sally must have written the note while she was still in the mood she had displayed that day.

Lois wiped her eyes and went slowly to her room. Her maid met her at the door. "Ah, madam, someone has just asked for you on the telephone—a Dr. Randolph. He telephoned—a Dr. Randolph. He out."

Ancient Rings Found
VISBY, Sweden, Dec. 11 (UP).—Ancient gold rings from the Viking days, weighing 250 grams (12 oz.) have just been found in a field at

Welcome awaits in the Gas-heated home

—no fires to bother with

You can easily keep warm during cold days—providing there's gas heating equipment installed in your home.

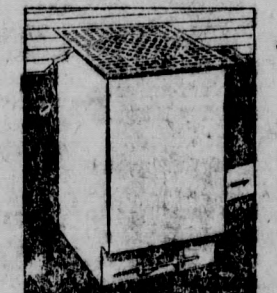

You just turn a handy valve for clean, healthful warmth. Turn off the heater and there is neither dirt, soot, ashes nor diminishing fuel supply to bother you.

The Floor Furnace

The Floor Furnace is designed to heat 2 to 3 rooms comfortably, even in the coldest weather. No basement is necessary for this furnace.

It draws cold air off the floor, down around the hot outside of the firebox, and circulates the freshly heated air back into the rooms. The warm air does not come in contact with the burning gas because, all products of combustion are vented outdoors.

We'll install a Floor Furnace in your home for $10.00 down and only $7.50 per month.

The Circulating Room Heater

The Circulating Room Heater is particularly adapted to heating small homes, stores, or offices. No basement is necessary.

This heater, a graceful cabinet type, harmonizes with the most tasteful furnishings. Like the Floor Furnace, mentioned above, the Circulating Room Heater gives clean, convenient heating. It is ideal for heating and circulating healthful warm air in 2 to 4 rooms. Furthermore, all products of combustion are vented outdoors.

Economical to operate. Attractive in design. Completely installed for only $7.00 down and $7.50 per month.

The Radiantfire

Enjoy the comforts of care-free heating and still retain all of the romance of your fireplace. Install a Radiantfire. It comes in designs and colors to conform with any decorative scheme.

The Radiantfire eliminates wasteful heating and all attendant labor. Dirt and ashes go, too. So your curtains, wallpaper, and furniture retain their fresh cleanliness and last longer.

Just light a Radiantfire—see how quickly you are completely surrounded with sunny radiant warmth.

We'll install one of these economical heaters now for only $5.00 down.

We have several excellent types of warm air furnaces suitable for homes having a basement.

See the above heaters and also warm-air furnaces at a dealer's store or call at our office.

About twenty of his friends and business associates gave a surprise party on Saturday night to Fred Huestis and his bride, the former Miss Ruby Briggs of Mapleton, Kansas, at the home of Mr. Huestis' father in Toyon Knolls. Boy Discovers Oldest Village

SEATTLE, Dec 11 (UP)—The oldest prehistoric village ever discovered in the North was unearthed on St. Lawrence Island, west of Norton Sound in the Bering Sea, as the direct result of an eight-year-old Eskimo boy's curiosity. Hundreds of relics of the ancient Indian village were brought here on the coast guard cutter Northland. Weapons made of walrus ivory, crude implements and other objects used by an early race were recovered for the Smithsonian Institute.

Henry B. Collins, Jr., assistant curator of the division of ethnology of the institution, was digging along the shores of Norton Sound when a small Eskimo boy approached and showed him a harpoon head, made of walrus ivory, which he had found on St. Lawrence Island. The boy directed Collins and his assistant, James A. Ford, to the place and excavations were started.

Navy Air Chief Asks Sunnyvale As Flying Base

Moffett's Report Picks Site
Opposed by Secretary
Adams

By WILLIAM W. CHANCE
(United Press Aviation Editor)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (UP).—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, today renewed his opposition to selection of Camp Kearney, California, as the site for the proposed new west coast airship base, and in the face of adverse reports by Secretary Adams urged selection of Sunnyvale, Calif.

In his annual report, Moffett asserted he "definitely preferred the Sunnyvale site," and asked that authorization and funds to proceed with construction of the base "be obtained at an early moment."

Moffett's action in all probability in his annual report, Moffett's action of the site that characterized consideration of bills for its establishment at the last session of Congress.

Decision Reversed
Adams and members of a special

Navy investigating board appeared before a special House subcommittee and recommended that Camp Kearney be chosen on the ground it was closer to the fleet. Because of the bitterness of the fight and the length of time consumed in attempting to reach a decision no action was taken at the last session, the matter being held over for the present session.

The Admiral's action occasioned surprise in naval circles. It was the opinion of officers generally that peace had been restored and an accord reached whereby the Secretary again would recommend Camp Kearney.

Among other recommendations in Moffett's report were:
Either increase the enlisted personnel at the San Diego and Hampton Roads fleet air base, or enact legislation providing for more civilian employees.

Passage of additional legislation to increase the previously authorized five-year, 1,000-plane building program to 1,125 to take care of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Coco Solo, C. K., whose aircraft have been depleted to outfit cruisers.

Reduction of enlisted pilots from 30 to 22 per cent.

Experimental Funds
Appropriation of more funds for aeronautical experimentation and research.

flying field, and construction of breakwaters to smooth the surface for seaplane operations; enlargement of the Hampton Roads field. Completion of the ZRS-5, second of the new super-dirigibles. Presentation to Congress of a comprehensive naval building program to provide a fleet up to the maximum limits of the London treaty, including provisions for early construction of aircraft carriers and authorization for aircraft complements. The admiral invited attention to the stabilizing effect "an extensive naval building program will have on business conditions in the United States."

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11 (UP).—While the first mad rush of stage directors to Hollywood, when the talkies were established, has ended, many of those who came West have made good and are established in the industry.

Many others have gone East again sadder and wiser men and convinced that perhaps they aren't so smart after all.

Some of the old silent day film directors have faded into the background, but the great majority remain. At Pathe studio, for example seven directors are under contract. Three came from the stage at the time the screen gained voice, three are simon pure film products and one switched to the screen from the stage in the premicrophone era.

Edward H. Griffin, Tay Garnett and Howard Higgin are the silent screen products.

Griffin, who directed such successes as the talking film "Holiday," with Ann Harding, began his film career in 1915 with Edison. Higgin started as an art director with Cecil B. DeMille, but later turned scenarist and then director. He is directing William Boyd in "The Painted Desert." Garnett began with two reel comedies and graduated to features. "Her Man" is his latest.

The Broadway contributions are Joseph Santley, Rollo Lloyd and Russell Mack.

Santley went on the stage at the age of three and became a director after appearing in many productions. His first film was "The Coconuts," starring the Four Marx Brothers. Later he made "Swing High" for Pathe. Lloyd followed the actor-director path in America and abroad.

Mack entered the theatrical game as a manager, later turning actor, director and producer. He came to Hollywood at the dawn of the sound era. Recently he directed Eddie Culligan in "Night Work" and "Big Money."

Paul L. Stein, guiding Constance Bennett in her new film, "Sin Takes a Holiday," is a product of the Max Reinhardt school in Berlin. After several years on the continental stage, he turned writer and director, then entered the films with UFA. His pictures attracted such attention that he was brought to the United States in 1926.

Of the silent director and the stage director in the film business he says:

"Both schools have had to learn and forget a lot. The silent picture director has been forced to acquire stage technique to get from his players intelligent expression of emotions in speech as well as action. The stage director has had to forget the limitations he knew on the stage, bounded by three walls and a row of footlights."

Saving is a habit. And a good habit. The sort of habit that you need never break. It is astonishing how much of a hold this saving matter gets on you, once you start. Astonishing, too, how the dollars do pile up—even only a few a month.

LET NO SUN GO DOWN

Before You Have Done a Good Deed

Let no night overtake you with the wrong deed charged against you. Whatever is right, battle for it—whatever is wrong, battle against it. That extra smile and that extra kind word for someone may be a small matter to you but both may mean new inspiration for some struggling soul. None of us can fairly take out of life any more than is given out by one-self.

Any other procedure is cheating, and if one cheats, night will find us with black and troubled thoughts glaring at us with hateful eyes. Let's all smile a little more and add a little more cheer to our words, and then will we be happy for having made someone else happy.

High School Notes

Under the auspices of the Sequoia Evening school, the Redwood Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Klyne Headley, instructor of the Sequoia band and orchestra, will give a concert to the public next Sunday afternoon, consisting of classical numbers, it will be held at four o'clock in the high school auditorium.

J. R. Phillips, Redwood City tenor, will sing three songs composed by Mr. Headley, and Mrs. Headley will sing "The Firefly," by Rudolph Friml. Euryanth overture, by von Weber; Sinfonietta, by Franz Schubert; Einzugsmarsch der Boparen, by Halvorsen; and Prelude Jornerfelt will be other selections on the program.

Preparing 40 Christmas baskets, girls' clubs in Sequoia Union high school, under the direction of the Junior Red Cross Council, are feeding 32 children who are wards of the juvenile court, and eight elderly ladies from the county relief farm. Ruth Herbig, president of the Sequoia Girls' society, is in charge, and the leaders of the five clubs assist her.

The club leaders are Charlotte Becker, Catherine Sparks, Lorraine Bullivant, Cecil Wathen, and Dorel Israel. Under these are eight chairmen from each club who are in charge of groups of eight or ten girls. Every girl is supposed to bring gifts or contribute something.

"The Royal Family," by Edna Ferber and George Kaufman has been decided upon for a senior play this year at Sequoia Union high school. The date for the production has not been decided, but a committee composed of Fred Moss, chairman;

Post Offices to Close Christmas

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 11 (UP)—Christmas day will be vacation day for postoffice employees in California and the remainder of the nation.

All California is urged to mail early—as an ordinary mail service will be suspended on the holiday. There will be a few exceptions. Special delivery letters and parcels will be handled and delivered promptly upon receipt.

According to word received at California postoffices from Postmaster General Brown, all ordinary work will be suspended in the offices from 12 midnight, December 24, to midnight, December 25.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Relatives of 86-year-old Frederick I. Whitaker had him hauled into court for insanity when he tipped a barber $5 for a smooth shave. "Not so nutty," said the judge, ruling the aged man mentally sound.

Anna Isaksen, Patsy Glasscock, Andy Bright, Evelyn Wild, and Dorothy Wiley, will decide when try-outs will be held.

There is good comedy and fast action to the plot, according to Patten, dramatic coach. Both of the authors are well known. George Kauffman having written "Begger on Horseback," which has appeared at Sequoia, and Edna Ferber having written "So Big," and "Show Boat." Seven girls and nine boys will compose the cast, all of whom will be chosen from seniors if possible.

With either Don Harris or Carl Thimble scheduled to play in Bill Lewis's place on the 130's, the Sequoia heavyweights will meet the to-morrow night—there. They are also slated for a pair of games with Salinas Saturday. Bill Lewis will be on the varsity squad because he is too heavy to make the lighter team.

Work To Start On U. S. City After Jan. 1

Plans Made for Construction Of Boulder City

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 11 (UP)—Actual construction work on Boulder City, Nevada's newest municipality, will begin shortly after the first of the year.

Walker Young, construction engineer on the Boulder Canyon project, revealed details of the manner in which the new city will be built.

If a report prepared by A. R. De Boer, city designer, is approved by officials of the interior department, Young said, the task of preparing plans and specifications for the new city will start at once.

While this work is being done, engineering crews will be assigned to the task of laying out streets, and sewer and water systems, in order that all will be in readiness to start work as soon as the contract is awarded.

The government, under the plan adopted by the interior department, will lay out the townsite, construct the streets, sewers, water system, street lights and other portions of municipal improvements planned for the city, as well as approximately 100 houses for executives in the various branches of the government work.

An administration building of Spanish design will house all of the government offices in connection with Boulder Dam itself.

Plans and specifications for construction of an asphalt-macadam highway from the city to the dam site, and for the government railroad to the dam site from the Boulder City yards will be issued soon, Young said.

While this work is being done, engineering crews will be assigned to the task of laying out streets, and sewer and water systems, in order that all will be in readiness to start work as soon as the contract is awarded.

The government, under the plan adopted by the interior department, will lay out the townsite, construct the streets, sewers, water system, street lights and other portions of municipal improvements planned for the city, as well as approximately 100 houses for executives in the various branches of the government work.

An administration building of Spanish design will house all of the government offices in connection with Boulder Dam itself.

Plans and specifications for construction of an asphalt-macadam highway from the city to the dam site, and for the government railroad to the dam site from the Boulder City yards will be issued soon, Young said.

Governor-Elect Urging Use of Christmas Seals

Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr., of California today issued his statement on the annual Christmas Seal being sold throughout the State of California.

"Throughout the world in the Christmas Season, we are accustomed to seeing on our mail these bright little Christmas Seals—colorful emblems of the world-wide fight to stamp out tuberculosis from among mankind.

In some countries, I am told, these little Christmas Seals are the official government stamps during the yearly campaign of education against the white plague, which we hope some day will not be a leading cause of death.

California, with its glorious sunshine, does not suffer as do less fortunate regions, but here, too, it is necessary to fight the ravages of this public enemy.

It is with pleasure that I reflect that this year finds the tuberculosis death rate in San Francisco at 90—the lowest in the States history. In 1912, when I first served as Mayor of San Francisco, the death rate was 197. This progress is due to the world-wide campaign which is being made by the tuberculosis associations.

Each year they ask us to buy their Christmas Seals which they sell without solicitation and without exploitation, simply by mailing them out and asking that we either purchase the seals or return them. It is the little we can do toward the protection of our people against the great public enemy.

MENLO PARK

The city council met in regular session Tuesday. A full membership was present.

W. W. Sergeant sent two communications to the council that were read by the city clerk. One set forth the poor condition of the street between the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and Arbor road and requested that the superintendent repair same. The matter was referred to the street superintendent. In the other letter, Sergeant complained of the "putrid" condition of the Bear Gulch lake, saying that the odor of the water prohibited it for drinking purposes. The letter was referred to the light and water committee.

The communication from the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce was read and ordered filed. The letter urged the council to refrain from taking part in the formation of the proposed new water district as there was a sufficient supply in the Bear Gulch lake to meet the demands of this community for some time to come.

Dale asked that lights be established on certain streets in Stanford Park. The mayor agreed to take the matter up with the board of supervisors and see that the lights were put in.

This was the time for F. J. Fumivall to appear and show cause why his building permit should not be revoked. He was not present and neither was his attorney. The council therefore defaulted the matter and revoked the permit and ordered the building inspector to see that all work ceased on this new building. Blake thought Fumivall should be brought before the council and made to explain his gross violation of the building ordinance.

Police Commissioner Crane read the report of the chief of police for the month ending November 30, which was as follows: merchants' licenses collected $175.56, vehicle violations $336, other violations $244, total $756.56.

The plans and specifications for street improvements in Stanford Park were adopted and filed.

Resolution No. 30-3 was adopted and ordered published. The date set for hearing protests was December 30 at 8 o'clock. A resolution was also passed accepting a deed from the Menlo Realty Company giving the city title to the street in front of lots 14 and 27, Stanford Park. The street is dedicated to public use and is in the area proposed to be improved. Easements were given by property owners in the district to streets to be used for the storm sewer. The streets to be improved were in use for the past 5 years. By a resolution presented by the city attorney all streets in the City of Menlo Park were declared to be public thoroughfares.

The City Attorney presented an amendment to the police ordinance, regulating salaries of the officers, etc. It was up for its first reading, and was strenuously objected to by Blake. He opposed that clause providing for extra policemen to do duty at the grammar school at $100 a month, and to the compensation of $2 a day for the employment of temporary officers. After some heated words the ordinance was passed for the first reading on motion of Crane seconded by Dale.

Superintendent of streets, Anderson said the work on Hoover street was progressing nicely and that the street would be finished in ten days.

The council adjourned to December 23.

Mrs. C. W. Grubb, formerly Miss Lizzie Kuck, on Tuesday passed away at the King Daughters home in Oakland, after a long illness. For 20 years she had been an invalid. The death of her young son, at the battle of the Argonne, France, during the World War, brought her much sorrow and torment of soul. Mrs. Grubb never fully recovered from the great tragedy of her life. Mrs. Grubb was born in Menlo Park and spent her girlhood here. Richard Kuck, her father, was the first postmaster of Menlo Park and the first grocer, having a store on the corner of El Camino Real and Oak Grove avenue, now occupied as a furniture emporium. Kuck constructed and ran the Menlo Park Hotel. In 1875 the late John T. Doyle had the town incorporated by an act of the legislature and was elected the first mayor of the new municipality. Dick Kuck had political aspirations and so sought the position of mayor, and at a subsequent election was elected after a big political scrap. Doyle had the town incorporated to have streets and roads improved. This done, the legislature discontinued the budding city that has slept in oblivion until a few years ago, when it again put on the garb of cityhood. Miss Kuck, in her teens in Menlo Park, was a reigning belle, leading the cotillions in the big ball room of her father's hotel on all occasions. The place was the headquarters for the elite of Menlo Park and Atherton in the by-gone days and many were the happy events that took place there. Youth and beauty met there to be lost in the mazy waltz and the gay lancers and to indulge in the tempting suppers, the like of which could not be surpassed in any land.

Some time after the death of her father, Miss Kuck was married to C. W. Grubb, an engineer at Stanford, and moved away from her childhood home but she always held pleasant memories of the place of her youthful dreams.

She is survived by her husband and a son, who is an engineer on one of the ferry boats, plying between Oakland and San Francisco. Miss Bertha Kuck and Mrs. John Welch of this city were cousins of the deceased.

The members of Menlo Parlor, N. S. G. W., were the guests of the Native Daughters' parlor at a banquet Monday evening. It was a delightful affair, the daughters looking at their best and the native sons, sprucing-up for the occasion, appeared handsome and gallant. The hostesses entertained their guests with songs and stories, winding up the affair with a dance. D. E. O'Keefe gave a short talk on the early history of California, ending the narrative with the sweet and beautiful love story of General Sherman and his pretty senorita at Monterey in 1847.

The people of Menlo Park are preparing to celebrate the completion of Hoover street, the first paved in town, before the holidays. The President, for whom the street is named, is to be notified of the event by telegram. Mayor Rolph, the governor-elect, will likely be here to help celebrate the national event. A street dance is to take place in the evening. A short program will be rendered and brief talks made by Mayor Weeden and Superintendent of Streets Anderson, and members of the council. It is to be a gala event and President Hoover will no doubt send a communication to be read on the occasion, showing his appreciation of the honor of naming the thoroughfare after him.

Mayor Weeden, at a meeting of the Native Sons, held last Thursday evening, brought up the matter of Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery two of the most popular comedians on the screen today and who have scored repeated successes in separate vehicles, are now to be seen in their first co-starring picture, "Min and Bill," at the Sequoia Theatre in this city next week. Starting Sunday night, this picture, said to be one of the biggest hits of the day will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

In the role of proprietress of a water front hotel, who is incidentally the "lady barber" on the side, Miss Dressler is disclosed in the opening scene of "Min and Bill" shaving Mr. Beery, who plays a fishing barge captain.

The picture, based on the widely-read Lorna Moon novel, "Dark Star," tells a dramatic story of the conflict between mother and foster-mother over the happiness of a child and is reported to rise to an intense climax when the foster-mother, portrayed by Miss Dressler, is driven to murder when cornered by a desperate situation. Most of the action is laid amidst the fisheries and was filmed on a location set constructed close by the actual canneries and fishing shacks at Terminal Island, San Pedro.

George Hill, whose outstanding production, "The Big House," received unanimous acclaim, is said to have equaled this past performance in the direction of "Min and Bill." The director, who is known to go to any lengths to get an accurate background for his pictures, employed several hundred extras of various nationalities merely to give the necessary color and atmosphere to his fishing village locale.

A cast of distinction supports Miss Dressler and Beery, including Dorothy Jordan, who has played opposite Roman Navarro in all of the latter's talking pictures; Marjorie Rameau, one of the most important of the Broadway stage actresses; Donald Dillaway, DeWitt Jennings, Russell Hopton, Frank McGlynn and Gretta Gould.

unemployment in this community. He told of the actions of the mayors' meeting in Redwood City, recently, and of the program outlined by them, to secure help for the unemployed. The parlor pledged Mayor Weeden its heartiest support in the good cause.

The Menlo Junior College team left last evening for Los Angeles to play the Compton Junior College for the championship of the state in the junior college class. Coach Dud DeGroot is certain his aggregation will win.

Mayor Weeden, Kenneth L. Martin and Professor McCaffrey of the Junior College will leave tomorrow for Mount Lassen to hunt bear. Their friends are preparing their stomachs for bear steaks and rib roasts. These big game hunters will surely bring home bear meat.

Annie L. Webber, a resident of this city for the past nine years, passed away at her home on Acacia street Monday following a lingering illness. Mrs. Webber was beloved by all who knew her.

DAVIS (UP)—Frances Forrester, high school student, kicked at the ball in a speedball game, missed, struck another student and broke her big toe.
